Housing Culture, Environment and Urban Development

The 2020 APNHR conference will provide an international platform to address the conference theme Housing Culture, Environment and Development in the Asia Pacific region and globally. The conference will bring together housing and urban researchers, experts, and stakeholders to engage in dialogues and forward looking discussions to invent impactful ideas and innovations.

This is a must-attend for anyone wanting to play a part in the housing future of Asia Pacific and beyond. As Universiti Malaya is located in the city center of Kuala Lumpur, the participants will have the opportunity to explore the dynamic city and enjoy its diverse culture. The technical visit to the historical city of Melaka will offer refreshing views of a UNESCO world heritage site rich in housing culture.
